

Helping Fund the Reasonable Faith Tour

bethinking.org

Over the ten days of The Reasonable Faith Tour, nearly 8,000 people attended live events, seeing William Lane Craig engage in four debates and numerous lectures. Every event was filmed and the Sheldonian Theatre lecture has already been edited and placed onto YouTube. It has received nearly 25,000 views in just two weeks. The Imperial College event was webstreamed live and was then placed directly onto YouTube. Apart from the live viewings at over 200 sites around the world, this YouTube video has received over 7,000 views. The potential impact from the video of these events, and the others yet to be edited, is huge. We intend to edit the video from the other events to make them all available to anyone who would like to view them. We also intend to produce an overall documentary of the Tour.

The general costs of the Tour were covered by the entry fees to each event. However, given the immediate large uptake of the Imperial College lecture, we decided to put all the films on YouTube rather than try to finance them by selling DVDs. Along with the desire to keep a strong discount for students (usually 50%), this has left us with a deficit, so that we have not been able to cover all the filming costs. If you are able and would like to contribute to the costs of making these films available to a larger audience, we would ask you to consider making a gift to the costs. This can be done by any of the methods described below.

However you give, please indicate that your gift is for The Reasonable Faith Tour to ensure that it reaches the right place.

Please note that if any surplus funds are received, they will be used to support the work and further development of bethinking.org. This article will be removed once we have the necessary funds.

Thank you.
